The three ex-Confederates who were murdered by James Galloway, registering officer, at the voting polls on Sept. 3, 1868, were buried here. The remains of David F. Fletcher and Samuel Fletcher were exhumed in December 1888 and were re-interred in what is now Elmwood Cemetery. Their original headstones were placed at the new location. The headstone of Lt. Andrew Marshall can no longer be found but he is still buried in this cemetery. There are other burials here but no others have been identified.
